Financial Relationship Disclosure and Content Attestation

The purpose of Continuing Medical Education (CME) is to facilitate life-long learning among physicians so that their practices may reflect the best medical care for their patients. To this end, it is the policy of the Opus Medicus that all of its educational programs be balanced, scientifically rigorous, objective, and independent of commercial influence.

The purpose of this form is to help you identify and resolve all potential conflicts of interests that may arise from financial relationships with commercial entities* relevant to the course content that you are planning, developing, presenting, or reviewing. You must disclose on this form your financial relationships with commercial entities that have been active within the last 12 months.

* A commercial entity is any entity producing health care goods or services consumed by or used on patients, with the exemption of non-profit or government organizations. For the purposes of this form, do not include as a commercial entity providers of clinical service directly to patients.
